

FLIGHT CALL FOR CHEVAL BLANC RANDHELI OPENING 15TH NOVEMBER 2013

THE MOST GLAMOROUS PRIVATE TRANSFER IN THE MALDIVES TAKES OFF

August 2013, London – Welcome aboard Cheval Blanc Randheli’s private seaplane as the second Cheval Blanc Maison by LVMH Hotel Management nears its opening date of 15 November 2013.

The sleek Twin Otter De Havilland, in Cheval Blanc’s signature taupe and yellow shading, will whisk guests from Malé to Randheli island in an enchanting flight above the Maldivian atolls. In preparation for the private flight, guests will be welcomed to the Maison’s own seaplane lounge with delicious refreshments and a gift of Cheval Blanc espadrilles to begin the holiday in style.

Once on board, the flight is made comfortable and restful with a cooling kit for each guest, which includes Cheval Blanc Randheli towels, amenities and bottles of ‘Island Chic’ scented water. With only nine seats, swathed in signature taupe Italian calf leather, and serene white interiors the seaplane ensure guests can sit back and relax with their wireless headsets, and enjoy the short journey – a sublime start to guests’ island experience.

Cheval Blanc Randheli, an intimate, contemporary haven on the unspoiled Noonu atoll, will cater to guests' every need through expertly delivered tailor-made service, crafting memorable experiences for couples and families. The 45-villa Maison will complement the group's alpine property, Cheval Blanc Courchevel, by offering the same stylish design and relaxed, friendly atmosphere, in the tranquil setting of the Maldivian archipelago. Each loft-style villa –retreats for barefoot living in the tropics – offers space and privacy as well as a private infinity pool, spacious overwater deck or dedicated gardens.

The Cheval Blanc Spa will offer tailored treatments by Guerlain, created exclusively for the Maison. Food is also an art and the Maison will comprise five individual experiences from fine dining to relaxed alfresco options. The PADI certified Diving Centre invites guests to discover the unique treasures of Maldivian submarine life.
